Valdobbiadene Docg Prosecco Superiore Extra Dry Millesimato

We select in our vineyards, the best grapes with the right balance in order to obtain a soft but decisive sparkling wine. With floral and fruity notes of golden apple and ripe pear, typical of the high hill vineyards of Valdobbiadene's area.

It is excellent for conviviality with friends, it is also accompanied with delicate and refined dishes.

The Glera grape, from which get the starting point, it is cultivated in our best hillside vineyards. The soils are rich in limestone and with a good percentage of clay.

The grapes are harvested strictly by hand to reach the optimal sugar level, but keeping an eye on the acid component that must maintain and guarantee the freshness of the wine. The pressing is soft and the must is fermented in steel at 17-19 degrees.

Following the first fermentation, the wine is left to rest on the fine lees, with very few rackings. After at least 5 months we proceed with the preparation of the cuvée, necessary to find the best balance. From here we start with the refermentation phase, in an autoclave. After this process, the wine remains in refinement for 60-70 days before being bottled, in order to have a fine and elegant bubble in all its perlage.
